“I enjoy using my transactional experience to help guide businesses through dense regulatory frameworks to achieve their goals. I am attentive, detail oriented, and value every chance to connect with clients.”

Blakely Vogel focuses his practice on providing strategic counsel to businesses in both transactional and regulatory matters. With a keen understanding of commercial law, he has experience drafting and negotiating a wide range of contracts, including general terms and conditions and binding subordinate agreements. Blakely also brings specialized experience to the construction and renewable energy sectors, where he assists clients with drafting, revising, and reviewing complex commercial construction contracts. His industry knowledge enables him to navigate the unique challenges these sectors face, ensuring that his clients’ agreements are clear, enforceable, and aligned with their business goals.

During law school, Blakely gained valuable insights serving as a legal extern for the Honorable Judge Steven Berlin.
